Straumann visits etkon production site in Leipzig, Germany

Straumann® etkon, a new and exciting concept in the world of CAD/CAM, was the driving force behind Straumann's recent trip to Leipzig. Home to the etkon production site, Leipzig proved to be the perfect opportunity for technicians to experience first-hand outstanding technology in action and just how advanced this system really is.

Dedicated to its customer base and their training, Institut Straumann organised the trip for the purpose of gathering honest and reliable feedback on this revolutionary system. The response was remarkable, with two out of three of the laboratories investing in Straumann® etkon pre-launch. Since then they have successfully integrated the system within their own laboratory.

As always, Straumann's hospitality in Leipzig was exceptional throughout. The group enjoyed a visit to the Porsche factory, further testifying to the fact that Leipzig really is home to state-of-the-art technology.

This exclusive trip demonstrates Straumann's ability to provide their customers with the utmost support and dedication, proving why they should be the 'partner of choice'.

Keep up-to-date with the latest advancements in dentistry through Straumann!
